

Features of the Kango Wrap

5080

“patent pending”

Flexible fabric blend of Rayon, Poly, Lycra with spring back tension designed for Moms and Dads to hold infant in Skin-to-Skin Contact.

The Wrap style front panels and front tie belts extend to adjust to the size of the infant with the flexibility needed for movement to the breastfeeding position. Mom can be hands free. It is suitable for the Premie and Term infant.

The Over the Shoulder wrap style wearing forms openings on each side for the Mom to express milk while holding infant.

The Over the Shoulder Wrap style distributes the weight of a larger infant between the waist and shoulders. We have focused on two wrap styles for this garment but there are many options for wearing.

The flexibility and stretch of the Right and Left Front Tie Extensions allow the Tie to stretch for expansion needed for the size and movement of the infant.

The encased elastic in the back neck supports the weight of the infant and springs back to original shape when Infant is removed.

The flexibility of the front panels, the tie and the length of the garment allows Mom the freedom and discretion to breastfeed in the "Laid Back Breastfeeding Position". Research has now shown that this position is best for breastfeeding.
